RAKI SPECIAL COCKTAILS

History

Where or when raki was first produced is unknown, however, it was first mentioned by the Ottoman explorer Evliya Celebi during his travels in 1630. In his ‘Book of Travels’, he reports that people produced their own raki in small towns, traditionally from a raisin/grape spirit called suma that is distilled to a maximum of 94.55% ABV. It is not a highly rectified spirit and unlike other flavoured spirits, raki producers consider that the suma has an important role to play in the flavour of raki itself. Enjoy raki in our selection of unique cocktails below.

Kanka

40

As the name indicates, "my best friend". There is no better way to enjoy this perfect cocktail with someone who loves the idea of raki, but cannot quite handle its raw taste. Prepared with fresh lemon juice, sweetener, rosemary and bitters.

Porthole Raki Signature

40

An elegant raki infusion in a classy Porthole glass with anise, citrus, orange and angostura bitters.

ARAK SPECIAL COCKTAILS

History

Arak evolved from the Arab invention of alembic distillation in the 12th century and originally is believed to have been for the production of perfumes. Traditionally made of only two ingredients, grape and anise, the word arak comes from Arabic ‘araq’ (meaning ‘perspiration’). Try arak in a collection of unique cocktails that we have crafted just for you.

Jareb

30

Meaning “Try it” - Whether indoors or outdoors, we cannot think of a better way to start your afternoon by trying our refreshing mint flavoured arak cocktail.

Porthole Arak Signature
